REQUESTS THRONE TO DISMISS MINISTER; HANKOW CAPTURED?

MEMBERS OF CHINESE NATION, AL ASSEMBLY TAKE HAND IN REVOLUTIONARY SITUATION.

BANKS ARE AFFECTED

Government Bank Notes Were Discounted at Twenty Per Cent—Foreign Banks Not Immune From War Scare.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Peking, Oct. 16.—Members of the National Assembly have taken a hand in the revolutionary situation. Sixty of them, in a resolution, asked the throne to dismiss the imperial minister of posts of communications Sheng Huan Liu, the leading advocate of the anti-provisional policy, is regarded as largely responsible for the present uprising.

Heavy runs on the banks continued here today and there were riotous scenes in front of several institutions. Government bank notes are no longer at par but are discounted at twenty per cent. Even foreign banks are not immune from the war scare. It is reported by the rebels that Hankow was captured and also the Chinese warship off that city. The price of rice has risen twenty per cent since the revolt began.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]

Pekin, China, Oct. 16.—All foreigners have been advised by their consuls to leave the district affected by the rebellion. The residents in Hankow have already taken refuge on a German boat and the other white people living in the city are preparing to board the foreign gunboats lying in the river.

Are Panic-Stricken.

The panic-stricken condition of the government is becoming more apparent every day. China's strong man, Wang Shih Ki, does not appear anxious to act against his own countrymen, despite the government's appeal to him for assistance.

Awaits Results.

The bolter is freely expressed that Wang Shih Ki is merely awaiting to ascertain the real strength of the revolutionary movement and if the rebels continue their successes he will join them. If this holds happen he will carry with him almost the entire regular army.

Strict Censorship.

The Chinese government has followed the example of Italy and a strict censorship has been established. Thirteen-transport trains stop here carrying 24,000 troops, but their destination is unknown.

Plague and Floods.

In the meantime to the horror of plagues and massacres have been added plague, flood and famine. The Yang Tse Kiang is again in flood and thousands are said to have perished and many thousands more are starving to death. Cholera and other forms of pestilence are raging and in places the death rate is reported to be between 200 and 300 daily.

Aid Revolutionists.

These circumstances are expected greatly to aid the revolutionists and thousands will flock to their standard in the hope of at least obtaining food.

FEAR THAT MADERO WILL BRING ON WAR

Expected That He Will Force Election of Pino Suárez as Vice President From Electoral College.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

San Antonio, Oct. 16.—When the electoral college of Mexico meets in Mexico City today, Francisco Madero, newly elected president is expected to force the election of Pino Suárez as vice president.

That act will undoubtedly precipitate another civil war in Mexico. It will be a repetition by Madero of the Diaz tactic his enemies assert.

General Reyes, idol of the Mexican army undoubtedly will lead the new revolt. Reyes will not be alone. Dr. Francisco Vasquez Gomez, former secret ambassador of Madero, but now his enemy will be here in a few days to join Reyes. If the revolt comes to John Reyna, the new president comes to him himself, president and Gomez vice president. Pascual Orozco, to whom more than any other man is due the credit for the revolutionary triumph in Chihuahua and the capture of Ciudad Juarez, which ended the war will net with Gomez in whatever the latter decides to do.

General Figueroa, leader of the insurgents in the southern part of Mexico has declared he will give Madero a chance. "My men," he said "fought for liberty, not for Madero. If Madero does not give them liberty they will fight him."

If Orozco and Figueroa desert Madero, he will have no support for the federal army is loyal to Reyes.

Roman R. Pena, editor of El Poder, a big Mexico City daily paper, has moved his paper here.

Madero, he claims, cannot last two months. He has fallen into the clutches of the men who ruined Diaz. Reyes will not start the revolution, it will start first. Reyes will be president and Gomez vice president. The E. Mugon party in northwestern Mexico and Lower California is increasing in power. Madero is sitting on a volcano which may burst him to destruction any minute.

PROGRESSIVES ARE HAVING BIG CONFAB IN CHICAGO TODAY

LaFollette's Name Mentioned in Gathering Brings Forth Storm of Applause.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]

Chicago, Oct. 16.—The progressive Republican conference in this city promises to be the big event of the week in the world of politics. Already a number of the progressive leaders have arrived in town and by tomorrow morning it is expected that there will be a great showing of progressive Republicans from all sections to join in the movement to defeat President Taft for renomination. A number of governors, senators and representatives are scheduled to participate. The ostensible purpose of the conference is to gauge the extent of the progressive movement and lay plans for the future of the organization, but as virtually all of the active spirits in the roundup are intimate friends and supporters of LaFollette, it is surmised that the real object of the gathering is to give an impetus to the boom of the Wisconsin senator for the Republican presidential nomination.

LITTLE DONE TODAY IN M'NAMARA TRIAL

Few of Veniremen Were Questioned by Attorneys—Little Interest Was Shown.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]

Los Angeles, Calif., Oct. 16.—The visit of President Taft overshadowed the McNamara trial today and little interest was shown outside the Hall of Record. The morning session was devoted to involved legal arguments regarding the competency of opinionated veniremen to serve as jurors in the case. Judge Bordwell is expected to rule on this point today. Both McNamara spent today quietly in their cells, only a priest visiting them.

READY FOR SECOND TRIAL OF DR. HYDE

Famous Swope Murder Case Will be Taken Up in Kansas City Criminal Court This Week.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 16.—Unless there is some change made necessary by circumstances unforeseen, the second trial of Dr. B. Clark Hyde for the alleged murder of Col. Thomas H. Swope, will begin in the criminal court here this week.

The case is one of the most celebrated in the criminal annals of this section of the country. Col. Swope, the alleged victim of the murder plot, was one of the foremost citizens of Kansas City and was widely known as a millionaire and philanthropist. Dr. Hyde, the alleged murderer, was a physician in good standing. It is felt that other members of the Swope family had met with mysterious deaths and that the public interest in the case is still high.

The first trial of Dr. Hyde ended May 16, 1910, and resulted in a verdict of guilty and a sentence of life imprisonment. Dr. Hyde's inability properly to explain the purchase of capsules of potassium cyanide was chiefly responsible for his conviction.

The first of a series of deaths in the Swope family was that of James Moss Hinton, on December 11, 1909. The prosecution charged that Hyde purposely bled the patient beyond the limit of recovery. Two days later Col. Swope was stricken with convulsions and died. Witnesses testified that a few minutes before the convulsions Dr. Hyde had given Col. Swope a capsule similar to the cyanide capsules it was shown he bought.

Col. Swope's will, leaving $1,600,000 to relatives was filed, and then Mrs. Margaret Swope, a niece of Col. Swope, became ill with typhoid fever. Then Christian Swope and two other relatives, mentioned in the will, became ill with typhoid.

Two days later, two more girls legatees under the will—became ill with typhoid fever, and nurses at the trial testified that Hyde had inoculated the sick persons with the fever germs. The repeated and continued illness and the two sudden deaths aroused suspicion and a secret autopsy was made of the exhausted body of Col. Swope and later that of Christian. On the toxicological reports and the testimony of a druggist who sold Hyde the potassium, as well as that of the nurses in the Swope home and of the typhoid patients, Hyde was convicted.

Mrs. Hyde, a niece of Col. Swope, stuck by her husband and against her relatives, and went on the stand in his behalf, but in vain.

On April 11, last, the Missouri supreme court granted Dr. Hyde a new trial. Since that time the convicted physician has been at liberty on bail and has spent the most of his time in Michigan and the Northwest. The prosecution of the second trial is to be handled solely by the prosecutor's office. In the first trial Mrs. Logan G. Swope, widow of Col. Swope, spent a small fortune in the employment of special counsel and expert witnesses and the prosecution.

WISCONSIN BARLEY TO SEED THE WORLD

Claimed That State Will Have Such an Amount of Pedigree Seed in 1911.

[Farmers' Institutes.]

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Madison, Wis., Oct. 14.—"Wisconsin will probably raise enough pedigree barley in 1911 to seed all the barley fields in the entire world," said Prof. R. A. Moore, head of the agronomy department at the University of Wisconsin. One eighth of all the barley grown in the United States today is grown in Wisconsin. This state grows approximately 800,000 bushels of this grain last year. The work of breeding high grade barley seed, which has been under way at the College of Agriculture for several years, has done much to raise the average barley yield of the state. During the past ten years, the high grade pedigree barley at the university has produced an average yield of 50.7 bushels per acre, while the average yield of ordinary barley has been 28.7 bushels.

Farmers' Institutes.

Farmers' institutes will begin in Wisconsin on December 11, 1911, under the auspices of the College of Agriculture of the University of Wisconsin.

A lively season is expected as requests for institutes have come from all parts of the state. Such topics as horticulture, forage crops, silos, cromerries, road building, horticulture, poultry, and cooperation among farmers will be discussed.

CLOSE GUARD WHILE TAFT IS AT SCENE OF M'NAMARA TRIAL

President Has Busy Day at Los Angeles—Will Start for the East Tomorrow.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]

Los Angeles, Calif., Oct. 16.—With the watchfulness of his guard of secret service men at his highest pitch President Taft today came to Los Angeles, the scene of the McNamara labor trial and most acute labor trouble on the Pacific coast.

It is stated that prior to his arrival a systematic combing of the city was made and suspicious characters were locked up until after he leaves the city.

A speedy program confronted him on his arrival. An automobile ride with speeches to students and colored citizens took him to the Auditorium where he made the big speech of the day.

Later he visited Occidental college, a banquet tonight will complete the day's program.

Tomorrow he will start on the long ride back east. He will ride forty-four hours to Butte, Mont., with a single stop at Ogden, Utah.

WILL TRY NEBRASKA WOMAN FOR MURDER

With Four Cowboys She Must Stand Trial on Charge of Taking Part in Lynching Affair.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Valentine, Neb., Oct. 16.—Cherry county is stirred from end to end over the Sellers "lynching" case which was called for trial here today. There are five defendants to stand trial for first degree murder, but public interest centers almost wholly in the case on but one of them—Miss Eunice Murphy, a typical frontier young woman, who is charged with inciting the murder, a capital offence in Nebraska.

The four other defendants are Kenneth Murphy, the 18-year-old brother of Eunice; George B. Wood and his brother, Alvin Wood, two strapping cowboys, and Harry Bentz, a cousin of Eunice Murphy and an expert "roper."

The four young men admit that one night early last spring they rode to the ranch house of "Hutch Jack," with whom Charley Sellers kept bachelor's hall, dragged him from his bed at the points of revolvers and hanged him to telephone pole nearby. Sellers had been an ardent wooer of Miss Murphy and the defendants claim that her failure to reciprocate his affection had maddened Sellers and he had threatened to who out the entire Murphy family and all their connections.

The prosecution, on the other hand, proposes to prove that the facts in the case were entirely different. The prosecuting attorney alleges that he has evidence to show that Miss Murphy had encouraged Sellers in his attentions, had accepted numerous presents from him, and had deliberately plotted with the four young men to bring about Seller's death in the belief that he had an insurance policy of $7,000 and had made a will in her favor.

MILLION SAVED FOR THE PENSIONERS BY THE GOVERNMENT NOW

Change in the System of Drawing Pensions Will Be Great Thing for the Old Soldiers.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Oct. 16.—A saving, estimated at $1,000,000 annually to the pensioners of the United States and eventually about $180,000 a year to the government, is contemplated by a simplified plan for the payment of pensions without vouchers, which Commissioner of Pensions J. L. Davenport submitted to the Secretary of the Interior in his annual report made public today. During the year $157,325,160 was paid as pensions, a decrease of $3,493,154 from last year, making the total amount paid in pensions since the foundation of the government $4,230,381,730. There were 53,185 names dropped from the roll and 26,290 added, leaving a net loss of 28,895 pensioners. The total number at the end of the year was 892,068, the smallest since 1892. Method of economy resulted in a decrease of the cost of administration by $140,046, the amount being $2,517,127, the lowest since 1882.

Commissioner Davenport's plan, which was devised at the request of congress and which will require the passage of a law, would greatly simplify the method of paying pensions, result in the mailing of pension checks on the date upon which the pension falls due, eliminate the cost to the pensioners in a large majority of cases of the execution of pension vouchers, which varies from $1 to $3 yearly; decrease to a considerable extent the work in drawing and mailing of pension checks and eliminate the sending of 4,000,000 letters yearly through the mail, saving about $80,000 thereby.

The plan contemplates payment direct by checks mailed to the last address of the pensioner. Besides the indemnity on the back of these checks the government would require certification by two witnesses as to identity. In a few instances Commissioner Davenport said voucher still would be required.

Commissioner Davenport told of his efforts to ascertain the truthfulness of reports in the press and elsewhere that the pension roll was honeycombed with fraud. He sent field men from pensioner to pensioner in the Washington agency, and is now doing the same in the Knoxville agency, with a view to probing fraud. Out of a total of 47,181 pensioners seen and questioned 26 cases of improper pensioning were revealed.

The commissionership said he believed the check system would put an end to any fraud that may now exist.

The number of soldiers and sailors on the pension roll at the close of the fiscal year was 570,660; dependents and widows 321,612; and army nurses 406. There were 529,884 survivors of the civil war; 36,213 having died during the year. It is believed that only about 25 per cent of the estimated 2,213,365 individuals in the United States service during the civil war are now living, the death rate of the survivors being now slightly in excess of 6 per cent yearly. The average age of survivors is now about 7

REMAINS OF ELMER CROOK BROUGHT TO EDGERTON SATURDAY

Man Killed at Tacoma, Wash., Concerning Whom Inquiry Was Made Here Under Name of "Cook," Had Relatives Near Edgerton.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Edgerton, Oct. 16.—The body of Elmer Crook of Tacoma, Wash., arrived here Saturday for burial. The deceased was born and reared in Dunkirk and resided in this vicinity up to fourteen years ago, when he departed for the west and followed the occupation of farming. With his departure the family became separated and none of his relatives had even known of his whereabouts. On September 1 last he was run down by a train and received injuries from which he died the same day.

Some time after the burial at Tacoma, Wash., authorities there learned of relatives residing near Edgerton and getting in communication with them found that one brother, Herschel Crook, and one sister, Mrs. N. C. Olson, both of whom reside in Albion township. He was 48 years of age. Burial was made this morning in Fassett cemetery, brief services at the grave being conducted by Rev. G. K. McNamara.

AN OLD REMEDY

Beef, Iron and Wine is one of the good old remedies that has outlived a score of patent tonics, reasonable in price, a satisfactory tonic, appetizer and mild stimulant. There is nothing better for that tired, worried, listless feeling or run-down condition of the system after illness of any kind. It tones the whole system, stimulates digestion, gives you appetite, is a good iron tonic for weak, pale children or old people, far more effective than malt extract or so-called wine of cod liver oil that depend upon their stimulants alone. Beef, Iron and Wine tones and sustains, it assists nature to recuperate, it's a food to the sick and nursing mothers.

Mr. Pfennig, our Graduate Pharmacist and Chemist, prepares our Beef, Iron and Wine. It's always fresh, made from the very best extract of beef, wholesome, properly aged sherry wine and soluble iron.

We don't sell ready-made, hand-made, factory-manufactured Beef, Iron and Wine. We believe and know that medicine should be compounded only by the experienced and scientifically trained.

Try a bottle of our Beef, Iron and Wine as made by Mr. Pfennig, 75c a full pint. Note its wholesome taste and invigorating effect. You will be more than satisfied. Get it at the Badger Drug Co., Milwaukee and River Sts. That drug store that makes a specialty of drugs.

JANESEVILLE NINE
TAKES FINAL GAMEScoring Three Runs in Eighth Inning
Defeat Beloit All Stars in Fast
Game, Sunday Afternoon.

With the score standing two and two at the beginning of the Janeville players' half of the eighth inning, the local team in a brilliant rally counted three runs after two men had been called out, and defeated the Beloit All Stars, 5 to 2, in the game at Atletie Park, Sunday afternoon.

The game yesterday was played to decide the tie which resulted from the nine inning game at Beloit last Sunday. This was the final game of the season, and it was the general opinion that it was the best played game of the season. Bugsy, the Pirate pitcher, was at his best, not only striking out fifteen men of the opposing team, but also pounding out the two batters in the eighth which brought in the three men then occupying bases.

PIRATES

The Beloit aggregation played for all that was in them, but were unable to secure the hits which were necessary for scores. The following are the summaries:

HUGH ROBINSON IN HIS CURTISS HYDRO-AEROPLANE TO FLY FROM MINNEAPOLIS TO NEW ORLEANS DOWN THE MISSISSIPPI.

Especially posed photograph of Hugh Robinson in his Curtis hydro-aeroplane No. 13, showing United States mail pouch just behind his seat. This is the first picture published of the hydro aeroplane which is to negotiate the longest flight ever attempted in this type of air craft. The flight was started from Minneapolis "with the date of mailing and October 13th and his course will point sent from."

to down the Mississippi river to New Orleans.

By authority from the postoffice officials at Washington, he will carry mail from one stopping place to another on the trip and the mail will be stamped "Hydro aeroplane mail service" with the date of mailing and drools of horses already at the track and others en route, the annual fall meeting of the Latonia Jockey Club opened today. The meeting will run twenty-four hours and will wind up the racing season on the Kentucky tracks. The officials in charge are Charles F. Price, presiding judge; John P. Dillon, associate judge; Muras Cassidy, starter; E. W. Maginn, racing secretary and handicapper; J. B. Campbell, clerk of the course; and Geo. Lindenberger, timer.

The feature of the events for the opening day was the Latonia Autumn Handicap, for three-year-olds and upward, $1,500. The other stake events to be decided at the meeting, all of which have filled well, are the Rosehill Stakes for two-year-olds, $1,000; the Criterion handicap, for three-year-olds and upward, $1,000; the Fort Thomas handicap for three-year-olds and upward, $1,000; the Kentucky handicap for three-year-olds and upward, $1,000; and the Endurance handicap, for two-year-olds and upward, $2,000.

Cattle Ticks.

A report issued from the department of agriculture states that the annual loss occasioned through the cattle ticks is in the neighborhood of $100,000,000, which is equal to about ten per cent of the value of the cattle. The quality of the animal is the lowest and the loss is greatest in the regions where the natural conditions without the tick should produce the finest cattle with the least loss.

Records Discovery of New Fish.
In communication to the Royal Society of Queensland, Douglas Ogilby records the discovery of one new genus and seven new species of fish. New, that is to say, for Queensland waters. Among these are slender dog shark, Howe's needle fish, long-beaked garfish, the somber leather jacket and others. The ladyfish (albulia microdon) is recorded for the first time in Australian waters.

Nature's Decoration.
During the past few months in Switzerland and France there have been brought to light several caverns in which proliferation of water has wrought marvelous effects of crystalline decoration. The last of these to be announced is a magnificent grotto held bare by a fall of rock at the Pointe du Taland, Canton of Belle Isle-en-Mer. The grotto is accessible at low tide, and covered at high tide.

MAYOR NICHOLS HAS ASKED FUNDS FOR FLOOD SUFFERERS

Issues Formal Call for Citizens to Contribute to Black River Falls Relief Fund.

To the Citizens of Janesville:

In view of the recent terrible disaster which practically destroyed the thriving city of Black River Falls, causing loss of property and money to its inhabitants, and following the appeal of Governor Metcalf for a general contribution of citizens of the state to aid in rebuilding the city and aiding individuals who lost everything through the disaster, I desire to call the attention of the citizens of Janesville to this appalling condition and solicit their financial aid. Money may be left at the business offices of the Janesville Gazette and Janesville Recorder, where an accurate list will be kept and the funds thus raised will be forwarded to the proper authority at Madison designated by the Governor.

(Signed) JOHN C. NICHOLS,
Mayor of Janesville.

Following this appeal for financial aid the Gazette today opened the subscription list with ten dollars and the names of those contributing will be published each evening. The money can be paid to the cashier of the business office of the Gazette and will be turned into the general fund.

HARVEY CLARK DIES IN MADISON SUNDAY

Former Superintendent at State School for Dumb Passed Away in Madison After Long Illness.

Harvey Clark, formerly a well known member of the state board of control and for some years superintendent of the state school for the blind in this city, died Sunday morning at 3 o'clock at the home of his wife in Madison.

The deceased was the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Clark, and was born near Orfordville. The family soon moved to Brodhead where he was educated in the public schools and was graduated from Brodhead high school. He entered the university in 1889 and was graduated from the academic course in 1893 and from the law school in 1895. He went to Monroe from the university and opened a law office there.

He was a member of the Delta Tau Delta fraternity. Although he had lost an arm, Mr. Clark took a great interest in athletics and was president of the University Athletic association for years.

In 1896 he was elected district attorney of his native county, Green, and was re-elected in 1898. In 1903 he was appointed a member of the state board of control by Gov. La Follette to succeed N. H. Treat, and a year later was made superintendent of the school for the blind, a position which he held until 1908, when he retired. He leaves a wife and his parents, residents of Monroe, Green county. The funeral will be held on Tuesday at 2 o'clock, from the residence of his wife's parents, State street, Madison.

THEATER

The Girl I Love.

"The Girl I Love," a sparkling musical comedy fresh from a season's success at the La Salle opera house of Chicago, will be seen in the Myers theatre, Wednesday, Oct. 18. Among the talented pretenders of this delightful "frolicsome with sultry music" are the following: Henry Gardner, Ted Burns, Lona Novak, Eleanor Henry, George Fox, Johnnie Dove, Harry C. Lyons, Hazel Drake, Clara Louisa Canaway and George T. Stetzel.

Henry Gardner is one of the most promising juvenile comedians of musical comedy. He is a product of the Boston Cadets, the famous amateur organization which graduated Julian Eltinge and other prominent players. He comes from a family of social prominence in Boston, and is a cousin of Mrs. "Jack" Gardner, whose name is one of the art-judges of the New England metropolis. Mr. Gardner has had a brilliant career as a headliner in vaudeville, with a minded sketch called "College Days," and with Laudy's ambitious vaudeville productions. He was also one of the principals in "Brown of Harvard," playing the studious young man who, is Brown's room-mate and chum.

Ted Burns has won a reputation as one of the fattest of the funny men in musical comedy, and also one of the funniest of the fat men. He is extremely versatile in this line of work.

For a number of years he succeeded the late Peter E. Dallas in his great roles on tour. Then he was elected Harry Fisher's second self by the managers—though the Dallas and the Fisher styles of comedy have nothing in kin—and played Fisher's roles in the touring companies of such well-known productions as "It Happened in 'Nordland" and "The Midnight Song." Mr. Burns is a product of the Amaranths of Brooklyn, one of the clubs which have given clever performers, among them Robert Hilliard, to the stage. He was an assistant time-keeper on the Brooklyn bridge, drawing $75 per week on that fat political job, when the stage fever struck him. He resigned to accept a theatrical engagement at $15 a week, but now he is getting $200, so it was a wise move after all. Three seasons with Weber and Fields' famous organization may be cited among Mr. Burns' many qualifications to the title of post-graduate comedian.

Lona Novak, prima donna of "The Girl I Love," is a beautiful young woman who has a bright future on the lyric stage. She succeeded Grace Van Stoddard, Ann Tasker and Mary Quive as prima donna of the Delmar Garden Stock company in St. Louis last summer.

Eleanor Henry who will play Flourette, the fascinating French soubrette, in "The Girl I Love," has been associated with Henry W. Savage's company for a number of seasons. She has sung the prima donna roles in such famous productions as "The Merry Widow" and "The Love Cure."

Mrs. Henry has as much beauty as talent and has been awarded two first prizes in "beauty contests" by the leading art photographers of the country. Her career began in vaudeville, at the age of 16, in the first-class houses of the Keith and Proctor circuit. Then came a season with Fritzel Schoff in "The Modiste," in which she played a principal role and the understanding of Vietnamese song-blend.

George Fox, who plays the rich old uncle in "The Girl I Love," left Williams College in his Freshman year to go on the stage. He has played important comedy roles in "The Land of Nod," "Mme. Pocahontas," "Two Little Girls," "The Honor the Mayor," and "Love and Politics." He has also been a director of stock companies for several years, and takes high rank in this branch of his profession. Altogether he has played more than 450 characters.

Morgan is not interested in the affairs of the martyrs, nor in John Bunyan—one of the greatest minds of the world—nor in the ideas born in the brain and heart of Bunyan while he read the one book that was allowed him in Bedford jail, nor in "Pilgrim's Progress," nor in anything of that sort.

He is a mere collector. He is simply indulging in the fact of a rich man who picks up the cast off things of great men.

And the pity of it all is that we, like Morgan, are more concerned about the shell of things than about the kernel. Of course we cannot afford to indulge in costly souvenirs, but—

Remember Charon's saying? "Ancient poetry has the story of Charon's one visit to the earth. Looking down on men and ethiæ, Charon said: 'These people are spending their time just in building birds' nests. No wonder they fall and are ashamed!'

It is not true?

Are not most of us building birds' nests that the gods will soon sweep away?

Is it not true that we go about buying and building birds' nests and walk about as if we owned things?

Honest, now?

Is it not true that we care more for houses and clothes and appearances than about the ideals that should fill our brains and the emotions that should overflow our hearts?

We are merely building birds' nests.

There are two or three more cases reported this morning.

The Portobello club was entertained Friday P. M. at the home of Mrs. Arthur Stockman.

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Thorpe entertained Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Chambers at dinner Sunday.

The Five Hundred Club was started last Friday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Will Thorpe. Mrs. L. P. Hulley and Frank Morris carried off the prizes.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur King of Mineral Point spent a few days at the home of her sister, Mrs. Alice Williams.

Mrs. Myrtle Miles of Milwaukee is visiting her parents for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Crandall and daughter were here over Sunday from Brookfield to help celebrate his father's eightieth birthday.

The B. G. club was entertained last Friday night by Misses Lois and Kittle Morris.

Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Ellinderson and son Claude, were Janesville visitors yesterday.

Will Penobsky and Mrs. Ruth Kilian of Janesville spent Saturday at the home of their sister, Mrs. Will Thorpe.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

BUILDING BIRDS' NESTS.

It is reported that J. Plorpont Morgan has paid a big price for an old book—"Fox's Book of Martyrs."

And—

The reason why this particular volume is deemed of value is because it is the identical book John Bunyan had with him in jail, Bunyan's signature appearing on the title page.

Well—

Suppose the book is genuine, why pay the price? Certainly Mr. Morgan is not so anxious to read the contents of the book, a complete copy of which may be had at any bookstore for $1. Indeed, one may doubt if Morgan reads the book at all.

He is a chamberlain, not a scholar.

He will buy it and lock it up in a safety vault of his big New York library, along with other autographs and souvenirs.

Morgan is not interested in the affairs of the martyrs, nor in John Bunyan—one of the greatest minds of the world—nor in the ideas born in the brain and heart of Bunyan while he read the one book that was allowed him in Bedford jail, nor in "Pilgrim's Progress," nor in anything of that sort.

CHECKERS.

The east selected to interpret "Checkers" when it comes here at the Myers theatre, Monday, Oct. 16, is no happy aggregation of players as has been seen in many a day. The characters in the play are numerous and diversified, but they are all in competent hands. Hobart Cavanaugh has in the title role a part which he fits to a nicely. It is a delight to see the easy way in which he handles it. The race track tout of Dave Brumham, is another excellent place of work and the "Part" of Florence Weston is as pretty as a mouse and as prettily played. Carrie Lamont contributes some good acting as "Cynthia" and George Merritt as Uncle Jerry, the unctuous countryman has made a clean creation and deserves all the laughter he gets. Joseph Wilkes as "Old" Barlow, and Pauline Ethelred, as "Aunt Deb," will be seen again.

MILTON JUNCTION.

Milton Jet., Oct. 16.—Roy, Samuel Shadel of Atlanta, Georgia, is visiting relatives here for a short time. He is having a vacation from his work.

The Five Hundred Club was started last Friday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Will Thorpe. Mrs. L. P. Hulley and Frank Morris carried off the prizes.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur King of Mineral Point spent a few days at the home of her sister, Mrs. Alice Williams.

Mrs. Myrtle Miles of Milwaukee is visiting her parents for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Crandall and daughter were here over Sunday from Brookfield to help celebrate his father's eightieth birthday.

Little Bed-Time Tales

By EDITH HAVENS

The Foxes

WITHIN the deep shadows of the woods, where nothing but the stirring breeze broke the stillness, there was a tiny sheltered cave. It was a warm little cave and well it might be for within that rocky walled home five little baby foxes lived and their blood leaped with the joy of life.

But Mother Fox this day was nervous and worried. While the little silky furred fellows frisked about within the depths of the cave she would stand in the doorway gazing out through the underbrush—then intermittently she would lift high her head and bark.

The little ones played on unconsciously of the mother's restlessness.

Here is the secret of it all. Father Fox very early that morning had gone off on a foraging expedition. It was long past the time when he should come back and like all good mothers, Mother Fox was worrying.

The baby foxes in their excitement over their play yelled and barked with increasing noise whereupon the mother turned a bit annoyed and bade them, "Hush their noise!"

Again she lifted her head in the air and barked sharply. No answer came.

She could stand it no longer. Turning to the little ones she told them she was going out to meet father and kiss him each one goodby, with instructions for them to stay close by the cave, she started forth through the underbrush.

As softly as a leaf falls from a tree she trotted along through the forest, lifting her head once in a while and calling as she ran. Only the tiny answering barks of the little foxes behind reached her ears.

Suddenly she stopped. She had come across the footprints of Father Fox.

Indian Cure for Smallpox.

We publish a simple cure for smallpox kindly sent by a correspondent: "One ounce cream of tartar, dissolved in water, drunk at intervals when cold," is the recipe, and in recommending it the correspondent says it "has cured thousands, never leaves a mark, never causes blindness, and brings speedy relief."—Advocate of India.

To Immortalize a Fashion.

A skirt, a blouse, a slipper, set in a beautiful sentence, lives more than a mortal life. I long for the theory of our time to outlast its period, for it to go down the centuries in studies, exordiums and metaphors, and by its very imagery to suggest to less spleenful ages all the beauty and luxury of ours.—Atlantic Monthly.

It is not true?

Are not most of us building birds' nests that the gods will soon sweep away?

Is it not true that we go about buying and building birds' nests and walk about as if we owned things?

Honest, now?

Just visit our ready-to-wear department—you'll find there a wide and varied assortment of garments that you'll enjoy examining—foremost among them you'll see countless "Distinction in Dress" styles—the garments that the makers think enough of, to guarantee them for two season's satisfactory wear. A visit and a try on will not obligate you in the least, and it will be instructive. We are showing this week a number of strikingly handsome blue broadcloth suits, extra well made, at $15. We direct special attention of the suits selling at $17.50, $27.50, $37.50.

The exposition of LaCamille Front Lace Corsets is meeting great favor with Janesville well dressed women, special feature being the Ventillo front and back. We invite every woman that wears a corset to call and examine our different models.

BRITTINGHAM & HIXON
BOTH PHONES

Origin of Common Names.
Kings in the earliest days were merely "fathers of families," and the word is derived from the same source as "kin." Queen at first meant "wife" or "mother." An earl was an "elder" in the primitive society, while "czar" and "kaiser" are both derived from "Caesar." A dandelion is or once was "dent de lion," meaning the lion's tooth, and vinegar was once "vin aigre," which means sour wine.

STRENGTH SUBJECT OF STRONG SERMON

"CAN DO ALL THINGS THROUGH CHRIST WHICH STRENGTHENETH ME."

PAUL MORALLY STRONG

Three of the Great Evils of Today Are Wrongly Emphasized as Evidences of Strength.

"The Majority of Strength," Phillips, 443, "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me." Using this as a text, Rev. Hazen delivered a strong sermon yesterday at the First Baptist church.

"We love to see strength," continued Dr. Hazen, "wherever and in whatever phase of life it is manifest. Hundreds of people go to the races to see a trial of strength between the horses which are trained from colts to use their strength to the best advantage. We have confidence in the strength of the people and things with which we are daily brought into contact. Things which we sometimes regard as evidences of strength are, perhaps, the surest signs of weakness. The power of eloquence, the ability to hold an audience spell-bound, may be the gift of the man, who, in reality, is not a type of true strength. It is in the things he says that he shows his power.

"Paul occupied a position in life which a great many people envy. He was placed where he could face enemies openly and withstand all sorts of trials and persecutions by his physical strength. His battles were often material trials, while ours, nowadays, are combats of mental and spiritual power. It is not the strength to bear up under physical pain which we need but a moral strength which has no weak spots where we will give way when the trial comes. A chain is not stronger than its weakest link, nor bridge than its weakest part. Every one has a weak point and when we stop to think, every trouble and fault may be traced to the weak spots in our lives. How often we wonder what the human race is coming to when we see so many weak places in the people who are filling the positions of responsibility today, as well as the people who are about us in our everyday life. But, we find that they have a strength in other characteristics by which they are able to pass over the points in their lives where they are weak."

"Far too often we emphasize things in our lives which are not real points. In the first place there is the habit of excuse making. It is not an evidence of strength to be able to make good excuses. Since Adam first tried to excuse himself by blaming his sin upon Eve, mankind has universally had the habit of making an excuse for an unaccomplished duty. This is prevalent in the church, in business, but most especially in society life and is one of the greatest faults, as well as the most universal. How many church members are there who have not made excuses for not doing their duty in some way or other, at least once? Men make excuses for not meeting their business responsibilities and suffer for it in the eyes of their associates. But in our social life excuse is carried most often beyond the truth and the 'white lie' is as prevalent today among church members and others who have a respect for the truth. In all other cases as well among the less scrupulous. Excuse making is one of the greatest blinds behind which people hide their shortcomings."

Again there is the great sin of finding fault with everybody and everything. How many times we see people who are continually looking for something to find fault with and then using that as an excuse to do the same thing themselves. This sort of reasoning comes down to the one great conclusion, that is, "I am going to the devil because you are."

Losing our temper is not a sign of strength in any man. The man who gets what he thinks are his rights by the use of force, either legal or physical, does not exhibit any great display of strength, but in fact shows where he is weak. Any person can fight but it takes a real man to control himself. It is the heroism of the routine which is the greatest.

"Paul's great strength was in his control of himself—actions, thoughts and words—in all kinds of persecutions and trials. He that conquereth himself is greater than he that taketh a city."

"But Paul said that it was not through his own strength that he was able to do this but through the spirit of Jesus Christ in him. And this, the great fact which is daily proved that when we try to control ourselves we are aided by some Divine power which we are unable to explain but which we recognize as present at all times. It is the fact which will enable us to conquer ourselves. I can do all things through Christ which strengthens me."

PLEASANT BIRTHDAY PARTY WAS ENJOYED AT MILTON

Friends of Mrs. Bettie Williams surprised Her Last Saturday Evening—Personal News.

Milton, Oct. 10.—Friends of Mrs. Bettie Williams to the number of twenty, surprised her Saturday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clem. Crumb, the occasion being her birthday. Light refreshments were served and games were indulged in and many good wishes expressed for Mrs. Williams.

Why is the soda cracker to-day such a universal food?

People ate soda crackers in the old days, it is true—but they bought them from a barrel or box and took them home in a paper bag, their crispness and flavor all gone.

To-day there is a soda cracker which is the recognized staple — Uneeda Biscuit.

Uneeda Biscuit are the most nutritious food made from flour and should be eaten every day by every member of the family from the youngest to the oldest.

Uneeda Biscuit—soda crackers better than any ever made before—made in the greatest bakeries in the world—baked to perfection—packed to perfection—kept to perfection until you take them, oven-fresh and crisp, from their protecting package.

HOG MARKET SLOW; CATTLE ARE STEADY

Receipts for All Grades of Live Stock Were Heavy at Chicago This Morning.

[REUTER'S PRESS.]

Chicago, Oct. 16.—The hog market was low this morning and the sluggishness of buyers tended to force the prices downward. The best heavy butchers topped the market at $6.75 while the greater amount of the sales averaged around six cents and slightly better. Receipts totalled 30,000.

The cattle market was steady in spite of heavy receipts and prices were about the same.

The sheep receipts were the largest in months, totalling 55,000. Trading was low. Quotations were as follows:

THE (42) BEST BARGAINS FROM OUR (42) BUSIEST STORES

Read Why

We are publishing this extraordinary page of specials

This paper has been studying for some time past the relative importance, interest and appeal the "advertising" of a modern paper should bear to the other "news" set forth in its columns.

(The result is staggering to the reportorial and editorial pride.)

It has forcibly come to us that, what interests the world most today and has most interested them since the world began, is summed up in—

WHAT TO EAT—WHAT TO WEAR—WHAT TO HAVE IN THE HOME—HOW TO BEST SPEND MONEY TO PROMOTE THE MOST PLEASURE AND HAPPINESS AND COMFORT.

Compared with these great points which vitally concern humanity, the lesser happenings of life are but incidents.

And the person best qualified to interest the people of this city in these matters of most moment are by all means the merchants—the men who are in touch with the world's markets—who know what is being done in the new discoveries and origination of merchandise and food stuffs, to raise standards of living or change modes and styles.

Do the people of this city really appreciate this great truth? Do the merchants appreciate it themselves, is a question this paper has been asking itself and also the question—

HOW CAN THIS PAPER HELP bring a closer confidence and sense of mutual understanding and benefit between advertiser and the public?

In answer to this question THIS PAPER HAS SET ASIDE THIS SPACE for one day each week and has asked the merchants of this city to contribute.

What in their opinion will be their (one) most appealing bargain.

Moreover, we mean to devote this space one day each week to announcing these "best" bargains. We also mean to protect our merchants and our readers in the sincerity of all offerings, and so we will appoint a competent shopping committee to each week inspect all "best" bargain offerings and decide which is the

ONE BEST BARGAIN OF ALL the decision of the committee to be published in the ad of the week following the insertion of the "best bargains."

42 Merchants Have Responded— some with price cuts, some with "new arrivals," some with style novelties, some with unique attractions, some with offerings possessing more than ordinary appeal to eye, palate, or ear.

This Ad is Bound to Contain many things to interest and appeal to every reader of this paper—many needed items at a big saving, many wanted things, many new suggestions; and so, even if you haven't a need, desire or wish unfulfilled at the present time, the reading of this ad and the succeeding ads will be well worth your while in developing your discernment, just for the interest and satisfaction of determining in advance in your own mind the "bargain" which the committee will select as "best," your faculty for picking out real bargains when you see them and also because these announcements from every point of view are bound to make

The most interesting reading of any page in today's paper

HOLME'S STORE

Offering new fall coats for girls worth $5.00 at $3.50 were awarded the honor of having the best bargain last week by the bargain committee of ladies from the Ladies' Aid Society of the Baptist church. It was hard to logically decide otherwise when such a value was presented for the consideration of the public.

Was this the bargain you decided was best last week?

Did you read and respond to that bargain page—you certainly missed the most interesting reading in the paper if you happened to overlook it—but here is another—just as brimful of interest to you—read every special—perhaps the very item you need most is set forth here the most extraordinary offering on the page.

The committee this week will be three ladies from the Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist Church

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

WHEN a young girl announced her engagement the other day, her chum, who is an exquisite embroiderer, offered to make her a full set of embroidered underwear.

With astonishing fortitude, the bride-to-be actually refused this offer.

"It's perfectly lovely of you," she declared, "but there isn't going to be a single hand embroidered piece of underwear in my trousseau."

Her friends were frankly astounded at this heresy.

She is, herself, a girl who embroiders beautifully, and everyone had prophesied that her trousseau would outdo anything before seen in the neighborhood in exquisite hand work.

"I simply don't believe in wearing out my eyes or letting my friends wear theirs out," went on the bride-to-be. "In the hand embroidery, when you can get such dainty edgings and hems and hamburg edges and insertions that make just as effective things, I should feel unhappy every time I looked at an embroidered set, because I'd think of the horrible eye strain it meant. We've raved so much about hand embroidery that we've gotten into the way of believing that it's much prettier than anything else. But is it really? I've been thinking a lot about it lately and I've decided that it's the amount of work involved that we're so crazy over, and not the actual prettiness. Why, I've heard two or three of the girls say that they thought that lace and hamburg took set in Rose's trousseau was just about twice as pretty as the one she nearly embroidered her eyes out over. We all made a fuss over the other, and she called it her host, because it represented so much work, not because it was so pretty."

Don't you think the bride-to-be's point of view on this matter is interesting?

And I think it is a point of view that can be used not only in trousseau, but on the clothes question in general.

I believe that if we would honestly try to make prettiness, effectiveness and daintiness the criterion of our admiration instead of the expense and the amount of work involved, we would simplify the whole clothes question.

I was much amused the other day, when I visited another young girl who was showing me her trousseau, which "almost" beat the best, and she answered indignantly, "I'm ashamed to tell you, it's perfectly ridiculous about it. He thinks we like THIS the best." THIS was a simple inexpensive blue gingham morning gown with a dainty little sailor collar of hamburg. The gown cost perhaps two dollars for the material and represents very little work, but it was made on fine simple lines—it was exquisitely fresh and dainty and it was of a style and color which became her perfectly.

Judged by standards of expense and effort, it was a decidedly inferior thing.

But the man did not judge that way. He judged by the standard of actual effectiveness and beauty and by the actual pleasure he received from looking at the gown. The little blue morning gown was undoubtedly more genuinely effective than the elaborate steel color crepe, mete, or the wonderfully embroidered green and black marquise, and he was wise enough to know it.

I wish more women could judge clothes by this standard. And do you know, I think a great many men, especially the worth while ones—do.

Women do not realize this. They fret and fume and tire themselves out to win men's admiration by extensive and costly and elaborate wardrobes, while the simple and inexpensive, but becoming thing, means just as much, or vastly more to him.

What Jane Austen said a hundred years ago is as true today as it was then, "It would be mortifying to the feelings of many ladies, could they understand how little the best of men is affected by what is costly or new in their attire, how little moved by the texture of the muslin, how unsusceptible of peculiar tenderness towards the sprigged, the spotted, the mull or the jacobean. Woman is fit for her own satisfaction alone."

HEART AND HOME TALKS

INSPIRATION GIVEN ONE HOUSEKEEPER

The Nut Road to Health.

PROBABLY there is no gainsaying the fact that many of us would like to have much better health than we now possess. But just how to secure it is rather perplexing when we consider all the things we are told to do.

We are advised that if we will chew our food properly all the ills that flesh is heir to will melt away. And so we solemnly Fletcherize from consomme to coffee. Another says that if we will eat the right food, perfect health will be ours. So we dine frugally on twice baked bread, beans and a little fruit. Just as we are wondering if it is worth while to prolong the agony, along comes somebody else and says the whole matter of health depends upon breathing. If we will only breathe deeply, all will be well. We begin to fill up with oxygen, when the announcement is put forth that it is eye-strain that is the arch enemy of the human race. No matter what's the matter, eye-strain is at the root of it. And as we wander in a sort of maze, and no matter which turn we take, we don't seem to get out.

No doubt, there's some truth in all these theories, and most assuredly is it true that many of the physical ills from which we suffer are due to wrong food. We eat wrong combinations of food. We do not eat the kind suitable to the life we live; or we eat without getting nourishment.

Today, what to eat is no longer a matter of guesswork. We should not eat ham simply because our forefathers ate ham. Nor should the heavy breakfast be ours, simply because it is the American breakfast. Chemistry is telling us the exact nutritive value of every article of food, and science is also telling us what the body needs under certain conditions. So we can fit the two together as exactly as we can add two and two to make four. If we do brain work and use up nervous force, we need the food that will build up brain and nerve. If we work with our muscles, and use up muscular force, we will need the food that will rebuild tissue and muscular energy. So we do not need to guess at what to eat haphazard. We can know exactly what to choose.

And it is in this chemical analysis of food that nuts have come to a recognition of their true value. Nuts have the same nutritive property as meat. They possess it in a much cleaner form, and in a form less liable to contain the germs of disease. And this nutrition in nuts is less costly than meat. So that nuts should take a different place on the menu from that which they have held in the past.

Most housewives will not wish to replace meat entirely with nut substitutes. The cookery of nuts in various dishes such as nut leaves and rolls, mock turkey, fish, and other such dishes, is too now yet and too little understood to be popular. Nor will nut butter replace dairy butter on the average table. These things would be worth while, but nevertheless few of us will do them. But we can introduce nuts into the menu in simpler ways with advantage.

They can be put into the children's school lunch in the place of meat. The housekeeper can eat them for her own lunch and thus save work. When there is a cold supper served, they can take the place of dried beef, or cold ham, or some of the other cold meats usually on the table. Little by little, they can appear on the menu, and thus their value be learned, and a taste created for them.

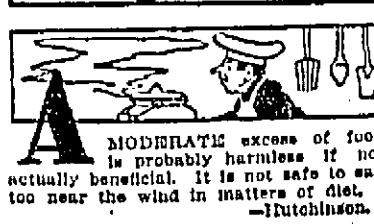

Two mistakes are usually made in the eating of nuts which have to some extent prejudiced people against them. Many say nuts cause indigestion. But this is because as a rule, they are served at the end of a meal, when sufficient nutrition has already been taken. Meat has perhaps been eaten in quantity, together with vegetables and other heavy food. Nuts, which are exactly the same thing as meat and some vegetables, only in another form, are then added to the already abundant supply of nutrition in the stomach, and the digestive organs are thus overloaded. Nuts should be eaten in place of meat or other heavy food, not in addition to it.

Nuts also should be thoroughly chewed. They should be reduced to a pulp mass before being swallowed. And they should not be eaten between meals, any more than one would eat meat or potatoes between meals. Nuts, fruits and cereals constitute a perfect diet, and nuts should no more be nibbled between meals as something of little consequence than would a piece of beetroot be nibbled.

Nuts, if they are rated at their true value as an article of food are both healthful and economical; and we all would be better physically if we ate more nuts and less meat.

The KITCHEN CABINET

FOR THE FRUIT CELLAR.

Corn Relish.—Before the sweet corn is gone do not fail to prepare corn relish. Cut the corn from two dozen ears, chop fine one head of cabbage, four large onions, four green peppers and add quart of vinegar. Boil all together. Mix three cups of sugar, three-fourths of a cup of flour, half a cup of salt, a fourth of a cup of mustard and a teaspoon of turmeric. When well mixed add to the vinegar and vegetables and boil half an hour; add two teaspoonsful of celery seed; and put away for winter use in sealed glass jars.

Quince.—Come late in the season. Grate and cook with equal parts of sugar for a delicious concoction called quince honey. It may be served any time as a garnish for plain ice cream or for dainty pudding garnish.

Pears.—Pears are so much more delicious canned in the following manner than in the way so many put them up for winter: Pare and prepare them in quarters or eighths. Put them with half their weight in sugar in a stone crock and let stand over night. In the morning cook slowly on the back of the stove until perfectly done, then can as usual. Lemon may be added if desired, but the fruit is much better flavored than when canned quickly.

The thrifty housewife has been packing her eggs for winter use while they are cheap. Either water glass or lime water makes a good preparation to keep them.

Make a list of all fruit vegetables, preserves and relishes that are in the store room and cellar. Then a glance will tell you what to choose without losing the time to look over several dozen jars.

Have everything labeled, for no memory is good for several months, and it saves many disappointments in opening the wrong jar.

If one can make their sausages at home, keep it in corn husks and smoke it. You will find a delicious flavor never before experienced. Some do not care for the smoking, but dip it after being wrapped in the husks and well tied, into hot fat, which will soak it, and it may then be packed in layers in a box. Keep cool, and it will keep for several years.

UP-TO-DATE HOUSEKEEPING

Letter of Thanks Received by the Feature Editor for Suggestion of Storing Away Supplies for the Winter.

This morning's mail brought the following letter from a woman reader of the Gazette which is published without any comment.

Feature Editor, Gazette:

Your present contest for women readers started me thinking that I was losing an opportunity and not utilizing space in my cellar I might otherwise have filled with potatos and other vegetables that would keep through the winter. I investigated and in consequence am making plans to have several bins made, small of course, for different varieties of vegetables, which I am going to store this fall for use during the winter.

I consulted with my grocer and vegetable man and found how I could store away my supplies so they would keep, and am going to do so. I also found that preserved keep better when placed in an enclosed pantry where the light does not reach them so I have had several hanging shelves put on the wall of my cellar with closed doors. If I had not read your articles I would never have thought of it.

(Signed.)

The "Feature" editor wishes again to call attention to the present contest by suggesting that the writer of the above can utilize her experience in this contest by writing just what she did and entering the article in the contest.

Conclude your articles to five hundred words each, write on one side of the paper only and have them in the hands of the "Feature" editor by November 15th. The following is the list of prizes offered for the five best papers.

First Prize.—Set of Dishes.
Second Prize.—Half Dozen Silver Tea Spoons.
Third Prize.—Dame Courtesy Cook Book.
Fourth Prize.—Family Scales.
Fifth Prize.—Vacuum Bottle.

There is something else for us to do in this world than to resign ourselves to a series of circumstances, if we try hard enough we will find a way to surmount them.

FOR THE CORSETLESS WOMAN.

The corsetless figure has attained more or less popularity in Paris, but so far has not met with general favor on this side of the water. There are, however, a few women who have never worn corsets and for them, the above model is ideal. It shows a charming peasant blouse of flax lace with raised waist-line, and is bordered and belted with bands of cluny insertion. The skirt is white linen.

This design would work out well for a winter gown, replacing the linen with satin and using bands of gold flax in place of cluny.

described was of great interest in the recent study of the high cost of living. One's memory is extremely faulty when it comes to remembering how much was paid for rents five or ten years ago. Not only does the individual forget how prices run in former years but the collective public mind holds much error about such matters. While it is true that cost of living is much greater than in other years, it is not always true that we never paid so much for this or that item of food as old account books prove. We want more things and should know whether they are allowable on present income. There is no better way to show this than by putting down on paper just where the money goes.

It requires a great deal of courage to say, "I cannot afford it." Too few

SENATE GALLERY.

THE Senate and House Galleries are never altogether dull or transients.

Even if the proceedings are dry, visitors like to watch the movements on the floor and study the personalities of men about whom so much public interest centers. Strangers in Washington often enjoy sitting a while just to hear senators and representatives pointed out to them.

Days when it is known there is to be an exciting conflict people come early, wait for hours in line for the doors to open; those who cannot get in stand outside in the corridors to catch what they can hear.

It is a custom for senators to give notice when they are going to make a formal speech. On these occasions you may be sure the senator's wife is in the gallery, feeling a little more nervous than he is as he arises to address the chafe.

Often in the midst of monotonous routine a sharp delineation will arise.

Every one sits up and listens. The newspaper reporters flock into the press gallery and get busy with their pencils. One wonders where all the people come from as they suddenly fill the public galleries.

The Senate is indeed much like a stage. There are the old timers every one has heard about and is anxious to see. There are the new stars about whom curiosity centers. Some senators antagonize the gallery audiences.

Others are favorites and enjoy the good will of spectators under all circumstances. The gallery view is quite different from that of the Congressional Record where the frequently recurring "Mr. President," "Does the Senator yield?" "I have the honor," conceal the intense human feeling revealed in voice and manner. The Record is the written play. The gallery, sees it acted.

Roman Cookery.

The striking features of cookery among the rich Romans were: multiplicity of dishes, the destruction and waste of vast quantities of material, and the absolute disguising of flavors by means of extraordinary combinations of highly seasoned, sauces and gravies.

Maybe He Doesn't Say It Now.

"I wonder," mused the contemplative boarder, "what has become of the old-fashioned men who used to get up in meeting and confess that he had just enough religion to make him miserable?"

Don't rub the life out of your clothes

Sprinkle a little Gold Dust in the water, and let the Gold Dust Twins do all the hard part of the task. Gold Dust starts to dissolve and lather the moment it strikes the water; it starts to cleanse the moment it comes in contact with the garment. It instantly softens the hardest water, saves rubbing, saves wear and tear on clothes, and does most of the work without your assistance.

Use Gold Dust next wash day, and have whiter, sweeter, cleaner clothes, with half the effort and in half the time.

Gold Dust is sold in 5c, 10c and large packages. The large package means greater economy.

COMET NOW MAY BE FAIRLY SEEN

Vagrant Wanderer Named for Brooks Shows Fair in Northwest Sky.

Brooks' comet, the vagrant wanderer that appeared in the heavens some six weeks ago is now showing nicely and is plainly visible in the northwest sky.

The comet is now at its brightest and soon will begin to grow dim. It has a tail about ten degrees long, pointing toward the polar star.

The visitor is called Brooks' Comet after Professor Brooks, of New York, who first discovered it. This is its first, and probably only appearance, however, in terrestrial audiences.

Visits from strangers of this sort are not strange or unusual occurrences and that their coming is of no especial significance. In fact it is not a difficult matter to discover a new comet. Anyone who cares to sit up nights and follow the procession of the constellations can discover a new comet occasionally without upsetting any of the established facts of astronomy.

Another astronomical incident of the near future to which the attention of the public is called is the annual eclipse of the sun which occurs Oct. 22. It will not be visible to us, however, and is therefore not of large interest except that it accords with the great plan of creation. It will be visible to Asia, the Philippines, Australia, the north of New Zealand and the Pacific Ocean.

PAVEMENT CONTRACT TO RINK & SCHNELL

Clinton, Iowa, Firm to Pave Academy St. from West Milwaukee to Northwestern Tracks.

Rink and Schnell, a Clinton, Iowa, firm, were awarded the contract to pave North Academy St. from West Milwaukee St. to the Northwestern tracks by the Street Assessment committee Saturday afternoon. Their bid was considerably lower than that of any of the rival firms, and gave estimates for the kind of brick to be used. The figures of each concern were as follows:

Ryan Bros., $452,73.
W. J. Hilt, $422,580.

G. D. Cannon, 474,003.

Rink and Schnell, $399,111.

The selection of the kind of brick to be used will be settled by the committee in the near future. Work will be commenced as soon as the papers are signed. It is required that the work be started before October 25, and that it be completed in a month's time. The committee spread the assessment for grading the Schnellay after the rear of the Y. M. C. A. building.

PHILOMATHIAN CLUB STUDIES GEOGRAPHY

Norway, Sweden and Holland Course of Study for this Season.

Norway, Sweden and Holland will be the course of study for the Philomathian club this season. At the meeting of the club held at three o'clock Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charles Capelle, 927 Prospect Ave., Mrs. Walter Holmes read a paper on the geography of Holland and Sweden, and Mrs. Charles Myhr had a paper on the early history of the same countries. The Royal Family was discussed by Mrs. Fred Koebell and Mrs. Jenkins gave a reading on "A Trip Through Sweden." In conjunction with the Art League an invitation was extended to the State Federation of Women's Clubs to meet in this city.

UNCLE WALT

The Poet Philosopher

BY WALT MASON

The summer's gone where summers stay—the summer gay and bright and rosy! And now the autumn's on its way to that dim bower where autumn mosey. The trees are dead—those playful olives, whose antlers made us sore and surly; and now we'll have to bump ourselves and our children in a shopping early.

THE TIME—
DORN ADVICE

There are some duties that I hate in this dark world of woe and weeping, some John which make my molars grate when I'm awake and when I'm sleeping. Some tasks we have to do are bores, in life's unpleasant hurry, hurry; we hate to chafe around the stores and do our Christmas shopping early. That slogan dinned into our ears by those journalistic preachers until it fills our eyes with tears, for we are poor, weak, human creatures. Such preaching gives us all the blues, and makes our tempers short and early; so let us out and all refuse to do our Christmas shopping early.

NOTES FOR CITY FARMERS ONLY.

By H. L. RANN.

We don't know of anything that will break the rest of an estimable family quicker than the sleep-walking shout.

The pig, which rises from an uneasy couch and meanders over the premises clad in sleep and a snore like an accordion with a hot box, is a greater menace to scientific agriculture than the practice of rotting cow-pie hay with quick grass. There is something wrong with the home training of the pig which gets up in the middle of the night and butts into the hired girl's room in a sleep-walking jag. It will usually be found that the stout which has contracted this habit is accustomed to sleeping on his back on a mattress of corn cobs, with his mouth wide open, which makes him the easy prey of every nomadic nightingale. You can't expect a pig to sleep with all four feet in the air and a back resembling a section of corrugated roofing, and not look with longing at a spring cat. If more twin beds were introduced into the hog house, the head of the family could retire to rest at night without having the coyotes pried off by some heavy-lidded porker in pursuit of a quiet snooze.

If your fireless cooker smoked it is evidence of spontaneous combustion in the hay tank. Remove the hay and replace with Wisconsin leaf tobacco, which nothing short of a full-blown somed auction pump can get any smoke out of. Every fireless cooker ought to be equipped with a time lock, to prevent food from scorching.

A friend of ours who says that he has tried our recipes with unfailing success sends us a sure cure for lock jaw in horses. His method is to lay an inch board between the animal's ears, climb into the feed box and strike him over the head twice with a sledge. He says this will either break the lock or kill the horse. This sounds reasonable, but we would like expert opinion on the subject.

BUSINESS DISTRICT NEEDS CLEANING UP TO PREVENT FIRES

Report of Wisconsin State Fire Prevention Association Received by Chief Klein—Important Recommendations.

Chief of the Fire Department H. C. Klein has received a report of the inspection committee of the Wisconsin State Fire Prevention association of Milwaukee, in which the conditions regarding fire in this city is thoroughly treated, the names of owners of stores and businesses placed in poor condition are given with the respects in which the places are dangerous, and recommendations are made as to various matters which can be done by the city to lessen the probability of fire loss.

Fifty-eight stores and businesses houses in the business district of Janesville are mentioned in the report as being in a condition which is conducive to property in case of fire. The majority of the complaints had to do with the accumulation of boxes and rubbish in the cellars and basements, and the location of gasoline tanks in dangerous places. In a number of instances it was found that the electric wiring was in a very poor condition, increasing the danger of fire. Orders for the correction of all defects and hazardous conditions were issued by State Fire Marshal, T. M. Purcell, on June 20, 21 and 22, last.

The following recommendations are made by the inspection committee: The chief of the fire department, Mr. H. C. Klein, is said to be a competent electrician, and we recommend an ordinance giving him authority to condemn unsafe wiring and compel its being put in a safe condition.

The city should pass an ordinance restricting the storage and handling of gasoline and other explosives within the entire business district.

The fire department should be increased by the addition of at least two full paid men at each house. This should enable the department to make frequent inspection of all buildings in the business section which is unable to do effectively with the present force.

The ordinance prohibiting overhead wires should be strictly enforced and steps taken at once to place all wires in underground conduits.

Overhead wires are a very serious menace to the fire department in fighting fires.

The ordinance prohibiting the erection of frame buildings within the fire limits should be strictly enforced without exception.

All buildings in the business district were inspected and those mentioned were found in passable condition.

Regarding certain of the city's ordinances in relation to fire the following comments are made:

Prohibited: City council frequently grants exceptions.

Storage of dynamite, powder, etc.:

Not enforced: Overhead wires (outside): Ordinance drawn to conform with underwriters' rules of 1889, now obsolete. Not enforced.

Mrs. James Barrett entertained a large number at a card party on Friday evening, Oct. 13, and all report a very enjoyable time.

Outdone by a Mule.

An amusing story of the capture of a thief through the instrumentality of a mule is reported from Jersey City. While the thief was busily wringing chickens' necks, the animal started kicking furiously at the chicken house, and before the thief could escape had brought down the roof and walls upon him. Entangled in the wire, and half-stunne by bricks and wood, the man fell in easy capture to the inmates, who had rushed out on hearing the noise.

Ancient Inn Better Than Ours.

The question of making durable ink perplexes the manufacturers of to-day. Observe closely any letter five or ten years old and one will notice that in all probability the writing has faded to a brown color and is very indistinct. Go to any large museum and there will be seen ancient manuscripts the writing of which is as black and distinct as if it had been done the day before yesterday.

WEATHER EXTREMES ARE PREDICTED NOW

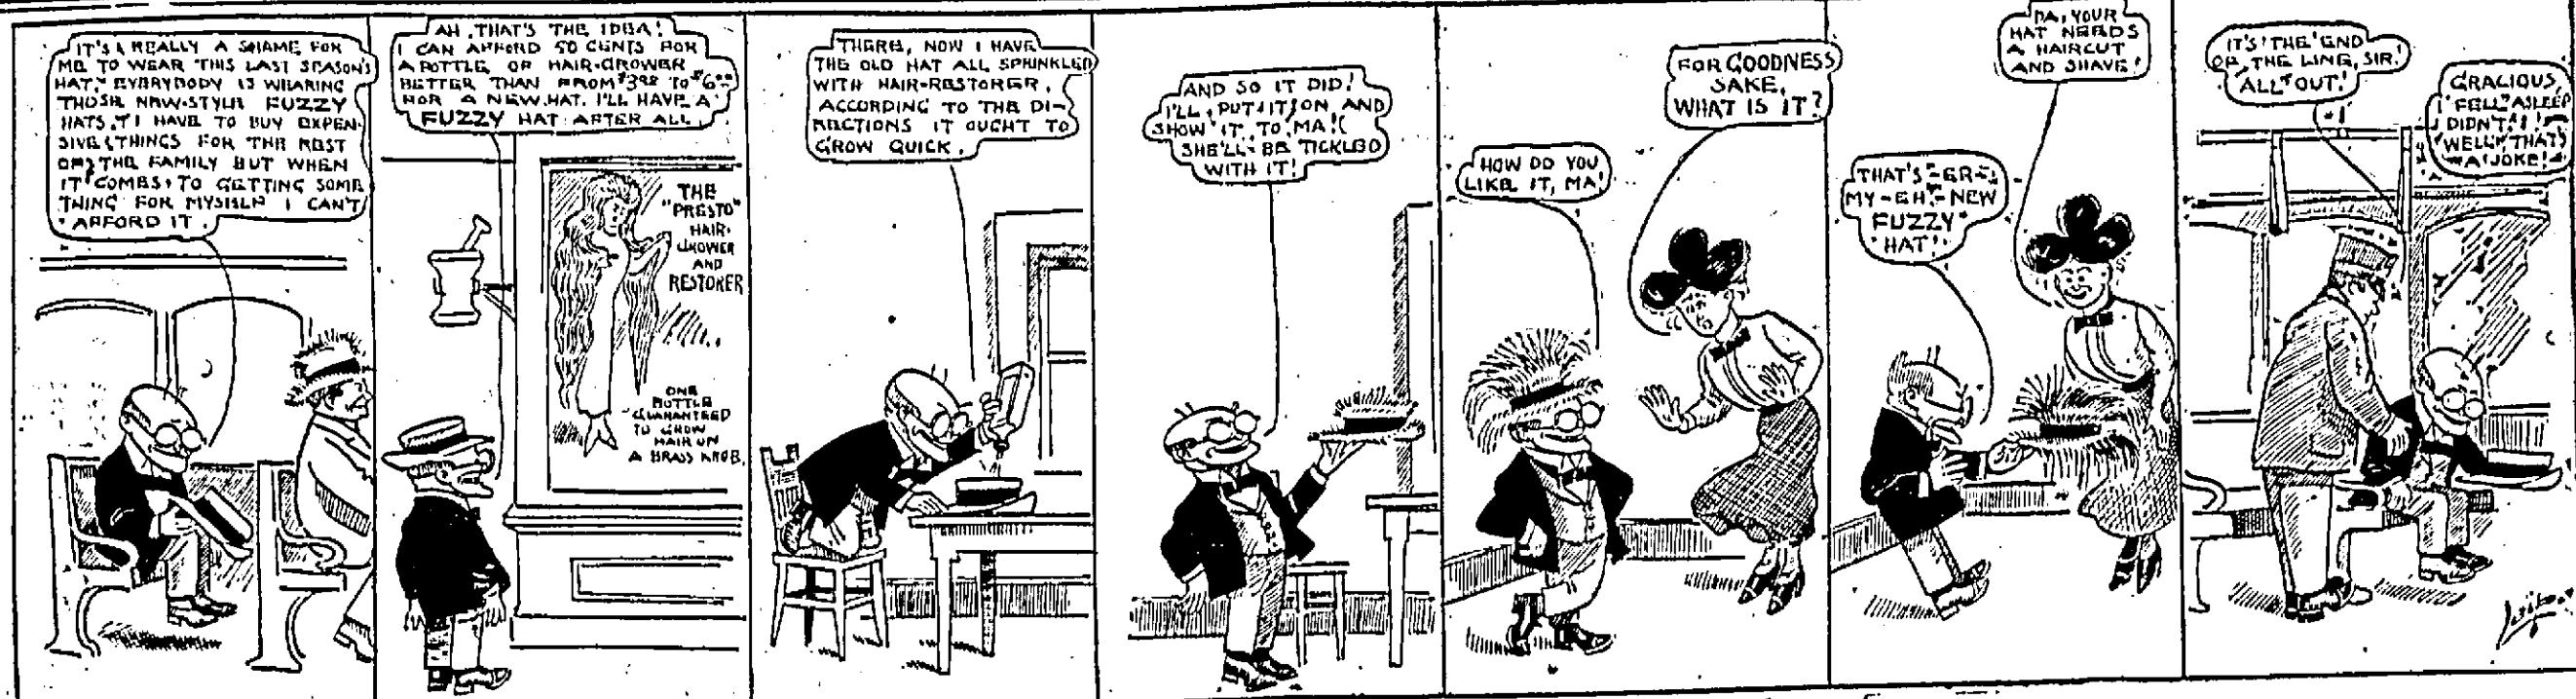

Latter Part of Month Will Be Intense in Weather Disturbances, Says Foster.

(Copyright by W. T. Foster.)

The last bulletin gave forecasts of a disturbance to cross continent Oct. 22 to 24, warm wave 21 to 25, cool wave 24 to 28. The five days of which the above mentioned warm wave dates will be central days will average a little below normal temperature and very much lower than the similar five day period of the preceding disturbance. The last described disturbance will be at its greatest intensity west of meridian 90 not far from the states and localities mentioned for the warm wave dates.

The reader should not forget that the heat, cold, frost, cloudy, winds, intensely clear blue skies, rain, hail, snow, angry and threatening weather, sleet, tornadoes, hurricanes, sunny weather, quiet changes, all are included in the term weather features, and that the words force and intensity, meaning about the same, may be applied to each of these weather features. Near Oct. 21 all weather features will become intense and go to greater than usual extremes.

The kind of weather feature depends on the location of the disturbance, the warm wave and the cool wave. I try to locate each of these and you must not get them mixed in your mind. Take each of these weather controllers, the warm wave for instance

"Please stop," he pleaded; "don't go on. Say, there's something in that hymn that hurts."

Letty Lane, unconscious of how subtly she was playing, laughed, and suddenly remembered that Dan had sat before her that day by the side of old Mr. Blair. She asked abruptly:

"Why does the Duchess of Breakwater want me to sing?"

"Because she's crazy about your voice."

"Is she awfully rich?"

"Um... I don't know."

Letty Lane flashed a look at him. "Oh," she said coolly, "I guess she won't pay the price then."

Dan said: "Yes, she will; yes, she will, all right."

"Now," Letty Lane went on, "if it were a charity affair, I could sing for nothing, and I don't doubt the duchess, too."

"I Didn't Think You'd Act Like This to a Boy You'd Known All Your Life."

If she is no benevolent as you say she is, could get me up some kind of a charity show."

Dan, who had started to rise, now leaned toward her and said: "Don't you worry about it a bit. If you'll come and sing we will make it right about the price and the charity; everything shall go your way."

She was seized upon by a violent fit of coughing, and Dan leaned toward her and put his arm around her as a brother might have done, holding her tenderly until the paroxysm was past.

"Gosh!" he exclaimed fervently. "It's heart-breaking to hear you cough like that and to think of your working as you do. Can't you stop and take a good rest? Can't you go somewhere?"

"To Greenland's icy mountains," she responded, smiling. "I hate the cold."

"No, no; to some golden sands or other," he murmured under his breath. "And let me take you there."

But she pushed him back, laughing now. "No golden sands for me. I'm afraid I've got to sing in Mandalay to-night."

He looked at her in dismay.

She interrupted him protest: "I've promised on my word of honor, and the box-office has sold the seats with that understanding."

By her sofa, leaning over her, in a choked voice he murmured:

"You shan't sing! You shan't go out tonight!"

"Don't be a goose, boy," she said. "You're no right to order me like that. Stand back, please!" As he did so she whisked herself off the sofa with a sudden ardor and much grace. "Now," she told him severely, "since you've begun to talk that tone with me, I'm going to tell you that you mustn't come here day after day as you have been doing. I guess you know it, don't you?"

He stood his ground, but his bright face clouded. They had been so near each other and were now so removed.

"I don't care a damn what people say," he replied.

She interrupted him. She could be

"It's all right, Mrs. Higgins; I'm from your town, you know." And the woman who admired him and understood him, and whose life had made her keen to read things as they were, said earnestly:

"I quite understand how it is, sir. It is just as though it came straight from 'ome. She overdraws her salary months ahead."

"Have you been with Miss Lane long?"

"Ever since she toured in Europe, and nobody could serve her without being very fond of her indeed."

Dan put out his big warm hand eagerly. "You're a corker, Mrs. Higgins."

"I could walk around the world for her, sir."

"Go ahead and do it, then," he smiled, "and I'll pay for all the boot leather you wear out!"

He went down-stairs, already too late to keep an engagement made with his fiancee, he stopped in the writing-room to scribble off a note of excuse to the duchess. At the opposite table Dan saw Prince Poniotowsky, sitting, as well, as the Hungarian did not see Blair, and when he had finished his note he called a page boy and Dan could hear him send his letter up to Miss Lane's suite. The young westerner thought with confident exultation, "Well, he'll get left all right, and I'm darned if I don't sit here and see him turned down!"

Dan sat on until the page returned and gave Poniotowsky a verbal message.

"Will you please come upstairs, sir?"

And Blair saw the Hungarian rise, adjust his eye-glasses, and walk toward the lift.

CHAPTER XV.

Galorey Gives Advice.

Lord Galorey had long been used to seeing things go the way they would and should not, and his greatest effort had been attained on the day he gave his languid body the trouble to go in and see Ruggles.

She said she knew it. "But don't come any more to the theater; get a habit of not coming."

On the threshold of her door he asked her to let him know when she would sing in Park Lane, and in touching her hand he repeated that she must count on him. With more tenderness in his blue eyes than he was himself aware, he murmured devotedly:

"Take care of yourself, won't you, please?"

As Blair passed from the sitting-room into the hall and toward the lift, Mrs. Higgins came out hurriedly from one of the rooms and joined him.

"How did you find her, Mr. Blair?" "Awfully nicely, Mrs. Higgins; she needs a lot of care."

"She won't take it though," returned the woman. "Just seems to let herself go, not to mind a bit, especially those last weeks. I glad you came in; I've been hoping you would, sir."

"I'm not any good though, she won't listen to a word I say."

It seemed to surprise the dressing woman.

"I'm sorry to hear it, sir; I thought she would. She talks about you often."

He colored like a school-boy. "Gosh, it's a shame to have her kill herself for nothing." Reluctant to talk longer with Mrs. Higgins, he added in spite of himself: "She seems so lonely."

"It's two weeks now since that human devil went away," Mrs. Higgins said unexpectedly, looking quietly at the telegram. She has sold every pin and brooch he ever gave her, scattered the money far and wide. You saw how she went on with Cohen, and her pearls."

Dan heard her as through a dream. Her words gave form and existence to a dreadful thing he had been trying to deny.

"She's hard up now, Mrs. Higgins?" he asked softly. And glancing at him to see just how far she might go, the woman said:

"An actress who spends and lives as Miss Lane does is always hard up." "Could you use money without her knowing about it?"

"Lord," exclaimed the woman, "it wouldn't be hard, sir! She only knows that there is such a thing as money when the bills come and she hasn't got a penny. Or when the poor come? She's got a heart of gold, sir, for everybody that is in need."

He took out of his wallet a wad of notes and put them in Higgins' hands. "Just pay up some bills on the sly, and don't you tell her on your life. I don't want her to be worried." Explaining with sensitive understanding, Galorey had not worked himself up to this pitch to break off now at a fatal point.

"I'm responsible for this, and by gosh, Dan, I'm going to put you on your guard."

"You are responsible for nothing, Galorey, and I warn you to drop it."

"You would listen to your father if he were here, wouldn't you?"

"I don't know," said the boy slowly. Then followed up with an honest, "Yes, I would."

Gordon caught eagerly, "Well, he sent you to me. Your friend Ruggles has gone off and washed his hands of you, but I can't."

Lord Galorey walked across the room briskly and came back to Dan. "First of all, you are not in love with Lily—not a bit of it. You couldn't be—and what's more she is not in love with you."

Blair laughed coolly. "You certainly have got things down to a fine point, Gordon. I'll be hanged if I understand your game."

Galorey went bravely on: "Therefore, if neither of you are in love, you understand that there is nothing between you but your money."

The Englishman got his point out brutally, relieved that the impersonal thing money opened a way for him. He didn't want to be the bummer and the cad, that the mention of the woman would have made him.

The boy drew in an angry breath. "Gosh," he said, "that cursed money will make me crazy yet! You are not very flattering to me, Gordon, I swear, and Lily wouldn't thank you for the motives you impute to her."

"Oh, rot!" returned Gordon more tranquilly. "She hasn't got a human sentiment in her. She's a rock with no woman's face."

Dan turned his back on his host and walked off into the billiard-room. Galorey promptly followed him, took down a cue and chalked it, and said: "Well, come now; let's put it to the test!" Blair began striking the balls.

"How do you mean?"

"Well, when you have had time to get your first news over from Ruggles, tell her you have gone to smash and that you are a pauper."

"I don't play tricks like that," said the westerner quickly.

"No," responded Galorey bitterly, "you let others play tricks on you."

The young man threw his cue smartly down, his youth looked contemptuously at the worldly man, and he turned pale, but he said in a low voice:

"Now, you've got to let up on this, Gordon; I thought at first you had been drinking. I won't listen. Let's get on another subject, or I'll clear out."

Galorey, however, cool and pitiful of the tangle in the boy's affairs, wouldn't let himself be angry. "You are my old chum's boy, Dan," he went on, "and I'm not going to stand by and see you spoil your life in silence. You are of age. You can go to the devil if you like, but you can't go there under my roof, without a word from me."

"Then I'll get out from under your roof, tonight."

DAYS AND NIGHTS.

Jim—The title of this novel is very ambiguous.

Jess—What's it called?

Jim—"The Knights of Other Days."

She Flew.

Miss Fullsoul (of a poetical turn)—Which are you of opinion one should say, professor—"summer flies" or "summer fleas?"

Absent-Minded Professor (great on entomology)—The two species, my dear young lady, are entirely distinct. Now, the common house fly—(Then he wondered why she suddenly opened a conversation with the young man on her right).—Sphere.

There Was a Reason. The army in Flanders had begun to swear dreadfully.

"We've got to do it to keep warm," the soldiers explained. "The war department doesn't give us enough blankets!"

A Union Man. Warden—The prisoner refuses to work unless he can practice his own trade.

Governor—That is but natural. Put him to it. What is his trade?

Warden—He is an aviator, sir.

Natural Etymology. "Chaufer" means "heat men," doesn't it? I wonder why they call them so?

"Probably because they are generally scorching."

Roses and Thorns. When you embrace a damsel shy It seems a sin To get all incited by A wacky pin...

In School District No. Sixteen, "Steve, what is the question to be discussed at the next meeting of your debating society?"

"Well, sir; it's one that appeals to every man with a drop of patriotic blood in his veins, by Jinks! Resolved, That William J. Burns is a greater detective than Sherlock Holmes."

Fight in the Garden. The Trumpet-Flower blew so loudly as to rouse the whole garden.

"What's the matter?" everybody yelled.

"The Daisy asked me to blow," answered the Trumpet-Flower. "The Tiger Lillies are fighting the Dandy-Lions and she is afraid her Sweet William will get hurt."

No Business Acumen. "Dibble is one of the most unpractical fellows I ever saw."

"You seem to be very positive."

"I am. Why, he wouldn't have any better sense than to start laundry in the heart of Bohemia."

Ominous. "Bridget, I feel so ill I wish you would not go out today. Couldn't you get what you are going for just as well tomorrow?"

"Faith, an I can—tomorrow or any day, I was goin' out to get meself a new job."—Harper's Bazaar.

A Summer Butterfly. "That fellow thinks he has a license to flirt, but he'll get his."

"Why his sense of security?"

"Oh, he was divorced by some judge with a proviso that he must not marry again."

A Hard Bump. "I'd hate to be an almanac. And here's the reason why: No nats are 'neath an almanac Who tumbles from the sky."

The Way. "How is it that Jabs has so much money? He isn't working now, is he?"

"Not exactly, but his wife gives bride parties."

That's Why. "My lord" appeals To most of us, Because it's so Allusious.

A Test. This Cop—Which of these houses do you live in?

Mr. Jiggs—Take me all long the street, lemme try every door, and the only one I can't open lab minn—Puck.

Also Skim Milk. "In our country, where can one find the cream of society?" asked Miss Blane.

"In Reno; of course; where society goes through the separator," replied the cynic, acidly.—Judge.

As Far as He Knew. "I say, Millvina, is your wife a blonde?"

"She was when she left home for the summer, and I haven't seen anything to the contrary in the society papers."

The Need. "How do you think would be the best way to settle this trouble about Morocco?"

"For somebody to get a good leathering."

And Drench the Public. "I have no objection to the women's coming to the front."

"Neither have I, if they only won't bring the garden hose along with them."

Another Outrage. "Oh, pa, come quick!"

"What's the matter?"

"There's an aviator comin' down in our corn field without paying the slightest attention to the scarecrow."

The Orphan. "Have the Filibusters come back to town yet?"

"No. Why do you ask?"

"I was just wondering how much longer we will have to feed their cat."

The Reason. "A clockmaker must be deceiving his customers when he tells them a clock of his will wear for a lifetime." "Why so?"

"Because it is plain to be seen that the hours are numbered."

A Favorite Spot. Noah sighted Mount Ararat.

"At last," he cried, "the mountain resort with an ocean view!"

Herewith he left the voyage was not in vain.—Puck.

Marital Amenities.

She—Do you remember the first time we met?

He—Yes. I was a real estate agent, and you came to my office looking for a flat.

She (savagely)—Well, I found one.

Just Right.

Her bathing suit was rather trim. But what of that?

She wasn't what you'd call too slim. Nor yet too fat.

FORTY YEARS AGO

The Janesville Gazette, Oct. 16, 1871. At the Walworth county republican convention, held yesterday, Pratt was nominated for the state senate. Thomas was nominated for district attorney and Montague for school superintendent.

An instance of genuine charity is given by a gentleman who was yesterday collecting contributions for the relief of the fire sufferers, in the second ward. A poor lady was visited by the committee and was asked if she had anything to give for the benefit of the people who had been burned out of their homes in the northern part of the state. Her reply was that she had nothing she did not need, but that she would divide what she had with the sufferers. Stepping to the bed which occupied one corner of the room she took therefrom the heavy quilt, the sheets and pillows and handed them to the committee. It was all she could offer but it was freely given.

O. F. Wallin of Plymouth, was nominated as the republican candidate for member of the assembly for the first district, on Saturday last.

We notice, among the patents issued for the week ending October 10th, the following: Railway Car Axle. E. Doty and G. M. Millmore, Janesville, Wis.

The Board of Registry meet tomorrow at the usual places of holding election. Don't forget to see that your name is on the list.

Will the republican committee which has charge of the joint discussion between Washburn and Doolittle, on Saturday next, inform the public whom they have chosen to preside on that occasion?

Secret of Literature.

Literature is the expression of an idea; it is the discovery that nothing is common or unclear; it is the revelation of the latent magic and wonder which underlie all things; which, indeed, cause things to be. To the initiated and unenlightened eye life seems a pattern of dull and opaque surfaces; art beholds all things as shining, translucent, marvelous.—Arthur Machen, in London T. P.'s Weekly.

Twenty years ago the number of private schools was small; 10 years ago there was noted a decided increase, and to-day America is supporting something like 80,000 permanently established educational institutions exclusive of the public schools.—Educational Review.

Evils Have Root in Idleness.
Idleness is the root of many evils. The idleness which preys upon the money-making power of another and forces it to dishonesty, is the cruel nail in the case.
